BEAUREGARD PRAISES ELEKTRA

Under the auspices of the Ogden Teachers association the great tragedy Elektra of Sopokles will be pre-sented at the Ogden theatre Friday right, by Mr. Raymond Runcan and his company of players who come direct from the Royal theatre at Ath-This will be the most classic and attractive combination of music dance, and tragedy that the people of Ogden will meet during the winter. In fact it will represent the highest ideal of the theatre. Every dance, song, movement and phrase have been studied for years by Mr. Duncan and the result is an exact reproduc-tion of what the Ancient Greek theawas in its pride. In an interview tre was in its pride. In an interview Mr. Beauregard, president of the Og-Teachers' association, made the following statement

The public was paid to come to the theatre, and the cost of the productions, and other expenses, was defrayed in the same spirit as is the cost of public schools and churches today. fact, the Greeks considered that everything that was educational was re The theatre temple of worship, and was in the charge of priests who devoted themselves to the means of giving culture to the public through the theatre

"Today the theatre is conducted solely for money-making purposes, except in a few cases, and unfortunately these exceptions for lack of other ex amples, are following close to the methods of the money-making theatre enterprises, and naturally arrive at somewhat similar results,

"Today we send our children to schools and universities that they become refined and cultured. We send them to churches that they may become moral and religious, and at the same time we support the mod the same time we support ern theatres where these same children will have the refinement and culture, the morality and religion, tak en away from them.

the support of the schools and churches, we spend great energy and thought on planning and improving forms of education. The brightest minds of our day devote themselves to this study

"But the theatre we do not think We utterly neglect to study it and we leave the guidance and choice of actors and plays in the hands of men that we would not trust in the education of our children for a single

Theatre an Educator,

"Our children go to school for ten years-or fifteen years, as the case may be-but they will go to the theatre all their lives. They may go to church—once a week—and to the theatre twice a week. They may learn good precepts in church, and school, but they will come in intimate touch with bad examples in the theatres. "The theatre is a great force, for the education or corruption of both grown folk and children. It is the school of the general public. It needs the same amount of study and care, the same amount of devotion of human energy, as the school or church, The force working for evil is great enough to contend with and overcome without the inclusion of the theatre Let the church, the school and the theatre be allies, working for the same aims, the same ideals of cul-

Great Greek Classic.

"The theatre of Sophokles is being presented today as a first step to-ward the renaissance of the art and purpose of the Ancient theatre. Today the whole world is awakening to the depth and truth of the different lessons handed down to us from Greece. Already the dance has been reviewed and is now being looked upon by the cultured circles as a means of teaching beauty and refinement.
It is now the turn of the drama, which is no other than a symphonic dance. "The production is the result of twelve years of study and research. It is not merely a play that will be presented to you, but a finished system of dramatic expression and human movement. Today we have plays that try to usurp the pulp't, and others that undertake the work of the political speaker, or the re-former. That may be all very well, but that has nothing to do with the art of the theatre itself. That is unique. It is the art of expressing in action, of bringing out the most ideal human movement, tones, posings, and groupings, and of causing dramatic emotions to pass to the pub lic through the sequences and har monies of those tones and movements

"The Greek tragedy is not only the most beautiful and ideal form of play but it is the most powerful and dra matic force that man has yet discov ered for the emotional influence of the public. The Elektra has the ele ments of the greatest dramatic emo tions and the most beautiful stage forms and movements; it is owing to its marvelous combination of both that it holds the place of one of the greatest plays that man has ever produced."

GALLATIN.

Word has just been received in Ogden of the serious injury of Mrs. C. H. A. Gerding, an Ogden woman, in Gallatin, Tenn., where for the past two weeks she has been visiting with relatives. Mrs. Gerding was thrown from a buggy in a runaway and received injuries which may prove fatal.

The unfortunate woman left this ity September 20, going to Nashville, Tenn., and on October 4 was paying a visit to some old friends in Gallatin. She, with two friends, was driving along a road and stopped to permit the animal to drink. Her two friends alighted from the buggy, and the horse, becoming frightened, made I a dash down the road. The lines had dropped to the ground and the lone occupant of the vehicle was helpless, As the horse turned a corner in the village, Mrs. Gerding half leaped, half fell from the buggy,

The fire was caused by the overheating of a range which had been left burning during the absence of the proprietor of the store. The fire in the range, it is believed, became so hot, that either the soot in the chimney, or the woodwork near the stove or pipe caught fire, and started the conflagration. The building was owned by C. P. Hutchington of Salt Lake. It is not known whether there was any in-

RAIN STORM HAS DONE GOOD

The rain storm of last night was a welcome visitor to the country in general and to the ranges and farms in particular. It is said by those from adjacent farm and range districts that the storm was quite extensive earth to a considerable depth. This will greatly aid in fall plowing and it will have a tendency to give the grass of the winter ranges new life and vigor

Nearly all the crops are harvested. but the rain will not be damaging to the harvesting of products that are still in the ground. It will aid ma terially in the potato digging, by mak ing the ground easy to plow and clear ing the fields of excessive dust. The sugar beet growers say the rain will aid them somewhat in the digging of the crop but that it will impede in hauling. The moistened earth will ad here more readily to the fibers of the beet, making them heavier and more cumbersome to handle on the wagons As a whole, though the sugar bee man says the storm is welcomed.
